NTA PERFORMANCE

PORTFOLIO COMMENTARY FOR OCTOBER 2010

Market Review:

The Australian market consolidated the gains made during September and the ASX300 Accumulation Index (the Index) finished up 1.8%. Global markets were generally positive during October with the S&P500 up 3.2%, the FTSE 100 up 1.5% and the Shanghai Composite up 12.2%. However, the Nikkei 225 fell 2.1%. The main drivers over the month were a solid US third quarter reporting season and the prospect that the US Federal Reserve would provide further monetary stimulus, if needed, to maintain growth and support asset prices.

Domestically, economic indicators were mixed. Employment growth remained robust. However, credit growth and retail sale trends were more muted. The RBA left rates steady at 4.5% and reiterated that it had a tightening bias. The Australian Dollar (AUD) continued its march higher finishing the month at 98.0 US cents, after having briefly reached parity during the month.

The Resources sector was overwhelmingly the best performing sector for the month (up 5.2%). REITs were the worst performing sector (down 0.4%). There was an increase in corporate activity during the month, including a merger proposal between the ASX and the Singapore Stock Exchange. In addition, Perpetual announced that it had received an approach from KKR.

Portfolio Review:

The Century Australia Investment Portfolio (the Portfolio) finished the month up 1.6%, underperforming the Index return by 0.2%. A key reason for this underperformance was the continued strong performance of the Resources sector, with smaller resources performing particularly well. This is an area of the market which Perennial Value avoids, as many of these companies are highly speculative and are yet to generate any actual profits. For instance, Lynas Corporation (rare earths explorer) rose 7.3% and 92.7% over the month and quarter respectively. Sundance Resources (iron ore explorer) rose 16.0% and 100.0% over the same periods.

Better performing stocks in the Portfolio over the month included Ten Network Holdings (up 11.8%), following corporate moves on its share register; News Corp Non-voting shares (up 8.4%); and Tabcorp (up 6.7%), following the announcement of a demerger of its casino and gaming businesses into two separate entities. Tabcorp also undertook a capital raising at $6.25 per share. The Portfolio took up its full entitlement in the raising and profited, as the stock finished the month higher at $7.38.

Overweight Portfolio holdings which detracted from performance included Korvest (down 7.4%); Ruralco Holdings (down 5.7%) and Lend Lease (down 5.3%). The Portfolio was also impacted by its underweight positions in BHP (up 7.7%) and RIO (up 7.7%), which both outperformed the market during the month.

During the month Perennial Value sold out of its holding in Woolworths. While this is a very good company, it is trading on an expensive valuation and is facing intensifying competition from a reinvigorated Coles as well as new entrants Aldi and Costco. This is likely to put pressure on future earnings growth. The Team exited the holding at $29.80 and the stock finished the month at $28.35, some 5.0% below the Team's selling price.

In recent months, the Team has broadly aligned the Portfolio holdings with those of the Perennial Value Management Model Portfolio. To date, this has involved the following actions:

1. Increasing holdings of ANZ, CBA, BHP and Amcor;
2. Reducing the overweight positions in Brambles and AMP;
3. Selling out of Woolworths; and
4. Beginning the process of exiting some of the more illiquid small holdings which Perennial Value do not hold in its Model Portfolio. At 31 October the Team had completely sold out of its holdings in Primary Healthcare, Bunnings Warehouse Property Trust, Dulux Group, Carindale Property Trust, Reef Casino Trust, K&S Corporation and Guinness Peat Group. Perennial Value had also reduced holdings in Ruralco Holdings and Korvest.

Investment Outlook:

Economic conditions remain challenging in many developed markets. However, growth in emerging markets is strong and overall global growth is recovering. The Australian economy in particular is performing well; benefitting from its resource exposure to these emerging economies, falling unemployment, a strong financial system and stable asset prices. As a result of the current uncertainty, the market is currently trading at a very attractive level relative to long term valuations. This offers investors very good opportunities over the medium term.

Top Equity Holdings – 31 October 2010:
